ALANG OF NEW GUINEA. Grace That Makes Flerce Warfare on All Other Kinds of Vegetation.

Dr. Poch, the Austrian anthropologist, who has spent a long time in New Guines studying its natives and its geography, tells of a remarkable variety of grass that makes fierce warfare upon other kinds of vegeta-tion so that practically nothing else grows where it gets a foothold.

The natives call it alang. It has a tall, thick and tough stalk, but its treatest peculiarity is its roots, which ipread out through every particle of rth they reach and give it a matted texture something like felt. There is really no room left for the the roots of any other kind of vegetation.

Fields of alang cannot exist in for-ests because the plant does not thrive in the shade. Neither can any kind of tree make headway in a patch of

The two kinds of vegetation are antagonistic. One will not grow where the other exists. Large patches of alang are found surrounded by timber and remain there like islands, for no trees will grow in them. Between the slang and the forest is a sort of neutral zone, for the shade of the high trees prevents the development of the

The New Grines natives help to extend the area covered by this grass. Each year they make a new clearing in the forest for their little plants tions. As soon as these are abandoned the alang takes firm lodgment there. It has won just so much terfrom the forest and it yields

WEALTH OF CANADIAN FARMERS.

Are at Present Lending Money to the Manufacturers.

There is no question that the largest percentage of the amount at present on deposit in Canadian banks (some $750,000,000) is controlled by the agricultural community. This vast amount is in addition to the large sums on deposit with trust and loan companies and in farm mortgages, for it is well known that in recent years the aggregate of farm mortgages, in Ontario and Quebec particularly, has been decreased. The farmers to-day as a class are not borrowers, but lenders

This is markedly so in Ontario. Turning to the other side of the current loans and discounts, which ployed in the manifold industries of country, have increased in just about the same ratio as the deposits. In other words, the manufact rers of the country and those engaged in other lines of activity are borrowing the capital required in their various enterprises from the farmers.

"You know Haeckel, Ernst Haeckel, the wonderful German scientist of Jena? Well." said a globe trotter. "I have seen that man eat snakes, mon-

Fewer Love Letters Now

"It's wonderful how few love letters are recalled through the mails these days," remarked a postoffice attache the other day. "I can remember when scores of swains came in every day to take advantage of the postal provi-sions for recalling letters after they had been mailed. It is not difficult to notice a great falling off in the proportion of the letters from young men to girls that are recalled. I take it that people are getting more careful about what they say. Then there is another reason—the telephone. Young men do not write love letters so much when they can call their sweethearts on the phone and have a few minutes' chat with them every day or two in a neighboring city Still, I don't sup-pose the oldiashioned love letter will ever be entirely supplanted."

Sacred Trees of India. There are many sacred trees of India which enter largely into the religious life of the Hindus. Chief among these is the sami tree nd the trembling neepul. Nearly all the higher hills and rocks in the plains are crowned each by a temple, shrine sacred tree. The peepul is known s the king of trees. It is the most holy, and the three great spirits of the Hir lus dwell therein. The worship of the tree is the worship of the triad Brahms, Siva and Vishnu. Almost very Indian village has its peopul tree, with a raised platform or sitar around it. The devout remove their s before it and make obelsance efore proceeding on their way.

Choir Boys' Pet Snakes. Garter snakes, grass snakes, and water snakes nearly stampeded the ongregation of a northwest district church on Sunday morning last, owing to one of the vested choir boys taking a pet garter snake to the choir loft on the previous Sunday, on which and for the taxes, which are now day, while the sermon was in progreas, the owner of the pet allowed the reptile to crawl over the choir railing and around his neck, much to the amusement of the other choir boys.

As a result nearly a dozen snakes of the harmless varieties were taken to service last Sunday. everal of the boys became frightened at the hissing and darting tongues of their new found pets and the reptiles escaped and were soon wriggling under the feet of the members of the congregation. CAUGHT THE FAIR CULPRIT.

How the Naval Officer Recovered His Lost Buttons

It happened on one of the United States cruisers now at Hampton roads, save the Washington Herald. A lien enant, having met two very charming adies while ashore, invited them on board for luncheon. They came and were shown over the ship. They lingered long in the lieutenant's room, which was daintly furnished, and they admired his photographs of home. When he was summoned on deck he left them there. Returning, he took luty in the afternoon, he excused himhe found that every button on his best coat had been out off and then he re-membered that one of his fair guests has been rather importunate on the souvenir question. He got her alone after luncheon and accused her of the theft and after some prevarication she confessed that the buttons were in her orsage. With some firmness the lieu tenant led the culprit to his cable, pointed silently to the denuded coat on the bunk, produced needle and thread and, going out, locked the door on the outside. In helf an hour he returned, unlocked the door, found hat his coat was once more in excel lent order and then, with great gal-lantry, bowed the lady over the side. She has not been invited to juncheon on the same ship since.

A FASHION FROM WAR

How Flat Watches Took Place of the Old-Time "Turnipe."

When the nest man takes unto him self a watch as thin as parchment he little thinks that that thin watch results from army regulations. Up to the time of the Allies taking Paris the ordinary watch was convex in shape and called from its outline a "turnip." The officers of the Russian and other armies objected to this because its bulbons form made the uniwhether it were carried in the cost or the fob. Here in Paris, however, they found that the watchmakers of the Palais Royal had contrived a chro nometer which got over the diffionly. Flat watches were the fashion in Paris. The English when they appeared in the streets of the French capital marched in not in gala dress such as the others were, but in the raiment which they had worn on campaign. Great was the impression which their habiliments created. But they at once adopted the smart flat watch and brought it back to England for our own manufacturers to copy,

A voice from the jungle of Burma is heard in the following letter from a missionary correspondent to the Christian Herald: "The Lord has sent me $10 from a friend in New York, which will buy thatch for the three which will buy thaten for the three native houses and an addition to this one I live in and pay for its transport here besides. Photographing the Mirage. The photograph represented a paim grove, a lake and a caravan of laders camels and white-yound Arabs moving in stately wise across the pale desert "That is a picture of a mirage, or fata, morgana," said the traveler. "I took it in the Sahara, not far from Tom-bouktoo. There was really nothing there but sand-wastes on wastes of sand, but my dazzled eyes saw that mirage and my camera saw ft, too, This is the only mirage picture I have ever got. I have tried in Ceylon, in Egypt and in Morocco to photograph various mirages, but always in vain There are scarcely six mirage photog in existence."

It also has other faults, but paucity in numbers is the worst. The reason, ac cording to Gen. Bell's view, why there are too few men in the army is because they are not paid enough. The wages of a private are only $13 a all interest in the land herein describmonth, in addition to his necessary ed, and to the mortgages or mort-gages named in all undisonarged reliving expenses, which, allowing $5 & gagees named in all undischarged reweek for bed and board' would make his services to the government bring.

The result is that a large proportion of the material that goes into the army is social and industrial tion as commencement of suit, and the riff-raft. Many criminals enlist to conceal their identity or escape the penitentiary. The loafer and the village "no-account" find their way into the ranks after all other devices for the land.

Description Sec Town Sarge Amy pd for year living on the community have been exhausted. Very few who enlist are capable, self-sustaining, reliable men. In a sense they are better off under the restrains and discipline of military life than as trouble makers at home. But what kind of an army do the make? How much are they worth in the supreme test of war? Our regular army is not and never has been dependable for meeting any grave emer gency, such as a civil or international conflict. It is too small to be of conequence, even if its quality were high. The volunteer is the safeguard of American independence and prestige. There is more strength in a regiment of civilians who drop their avocations in defence on the country than in two regiments of any standing army on earth where service is compulsory, as in Europe, or where it is cheaply rendered, as in the United States. The military ought to be sufficient in size and morals to guarantee do-mestic order. To this end its needs are rather of quality than of numbers In case of war that might test our national strength it would be only the nucleus of an army and an insignificant nuclues at that. What we should have to meet such possibilities are hosts of courageous civilians. There is no cause for worry over the size of our standing army; it can be increased as desired by simply raising the pay.

MEXT PANIC DUE IN 1913.

By Prot. Joseph P. Johnson. If an industrial crisis is on the slate it will, in all probability, not come before 1913. That would seem an appropriate year. In England there is a panic about every ten years, in the United States every twenty years. During the last ten years prices have risen 42 per cent, while the amount of money has increased 70 per ceut. During that same time the national banks have increased their loans and discounts billion to four billion three hundred million dollars, am increase of 115 per cent. Meantime the reserves have m reduced from 19 per cent to 18 per cent.

Waxes have not gone up as rapidly as prices have risen and therefore an increase in wages should be made. If copie are to purchase goods at rising prices they must saye higher wages. I do not say this from any humanitarian motive, but from the knowledge of the cold fact that if prosperity is to increase we must give some of the nessey earned to the common people.

I believe that the old United States bank could be es-ed to advantage if a new charter like that of the Bank of France were conferred upon it. If we cannot Sind twelve honest financiers for the president to appoint the manage its affairs, then I think we had better have If an industrial crisis is on the slate it will, in all probability, be like that of 1857, from the effects of the country recovered almost completely within a pear. The most serious factor in the present situation the loss of confidence occasioned by the break in Wall street. There is a popular impression that Wall street ants future events, and that the March panic means that railroads will be forced to cut dividends within a

WAIR DEALING IN RAILROAD MATTERS.

By Gov. Charles B. Hughes of New York. I am fully conscious, as is every one who professes to have a modi-cum of intelligence, of the tremendous advantages which the country and every community in it have derived from the extension of our railroad facilities. They are the arteries of com merce; our communities would be lifeless, our trade would collapse, we would all be worse than dead were it not for these opportunities of nmunication and these facilities of transportation.

We honor all that has been done in-C. E. HUGHES. a just effort to make these possible. We want more; we want extension; we want greater facilities. We want every opportunity afforded to enable the people to remove their produce, and we want fair tment to those who are engaged in this very necessary activity. Yet it is said that, despite the prosperity of the coun try and the great benefits that have been derived from extension of our transportation facilities, there is a state of unrest; that there is a general condition of dis centent throughout the country. Why? Is it because of extension of means of communication? Will any one engest to an intelligent audience that American citizens in revolt against their own prosperity?

clientele of the physicians is growing smaller and smaller, but their glory as humanitarions and scientists is rising and will reach the sculth after coming generations of more erudits physicians have conquered and laid at their feet the two worst enemies of mankind—tuberculosis and cancer. Preventive medicine is the medicine of the future, and the final triumph of scientific medicine will be the suppression of disease. In this struggle with the causes of disease we need not only the earnest and united support of the medical profession in the front ranks of this movement but the encouragement and financial aid of the governments, general, state, county, city and village. A new and much needed specialty in medicine should be created-scientific sanitation. But to accomplish our final object in public sanitation means must be provided for popular instruction in hygiene and sanitation in our schools and by popular lectures, in order to reach the mass of the people, and by doing so enlist their interest and secure their co-operation.

MENACE OF MACHINE MUSIC.

By Carl O. Schmidt.

The one thing Americans have been repeatedly accused of is a lack of thoroughness. We are told that we seek to accomplish in months that to which other nationalities devote years. We are in a burry with our arts and business. These criticisms are in many respects true. As people we seem no longer content to enrich our lives by years of careful study; we prefer rather to obtain our music with ease and rapidity, hence the mechanical plane players, phonographs, etc.

That these machines tend to disseminate knowledge is unquestionable, but that they bring one into a close touch with the relining influence of music which comes with netnal association and study is not quite so clear. To have music at hand is certainly to enjoy it, but to come into close relationship with each thought and mood of the composer is to love it.

There may be many reasons for machine music, but that does not for a moment after the fact that this country needs men who are willing to devote years of life to the furtherance of music and art. To do this we must What they revolt against is dishonest finance. What now and for all time banish the spirit of haste,-Etude.

BELIEF IN LIFE HERBAPTER.

By Rev. Edwin W. Caswell

For what is your life?-James 4: 14. Life, it is said, is not a "blind alley," but a thoroughfare; death, a bend in the road that stretches on through the undiscovered country. Belief in God and in the future life makes men patient in suffering, hopeful in despair. calm under calumny, philanthropic self-sacrificing, patriotic and heroic. It has inspired the greatest classics in literature. Moses, Homer, Virgil, Dante, Goethe, Bunyan, Milton, all write of erces living beyond the present life. The chief discoverers and inventors first saw by faith the invisible world. Socrates, Galileo, Copernicus, Newton Paraday, Watt, Fulton, Morse and Edi ion, the nearer they approached the Creator in their vast researches the more they believed the future to be a life for the adjustment of inequalities. for the continuance of develop studies and discoveries and for the re union of sonis.

The tendency of those who decry the future as so problematical as to be unpractical is to sink down into material. ism and animalism, desiring only food fire, clothing and housing, reducing life to "getting a living," whereas life here is only the husk of the life beyond, the corn, the husk being valuable till the corn is garnered.

Christ's great power over manking was because he truthfully exclaim of am the resurrection and the life." Without the resurrection Christianity would have perished at its birth. Other religious worship at the tomb of dead leaders, while Christendom exclaims: "I know that my Re-deemer liveth," Humanity everywhere craves life. Browning beautifully says No life that breathes with human breath Has ever truly longed for death; Tis life whereof our lives are scant, O life, not death, for which we pant; More life and fuller, that I want.

Is not immortality really here and now and time but a fragment of the whole life? We are passing through eternal atmospheres, as the earth through air, unconsciously, while the eclipse of death is only a shadowy id before the light of the morning Life should mean unending bliss or it is not worth living. The gates of God must open or all is a failure. Life must mean cheer, stereotyped in timfor us and joy for ever more.

If character dies, it is the catastro pho of the universe, the failure of cre ation, the fall of the Godbend and the enthronement of chaos. Then the phys ical becomes grander than the spirit-The sequoias of the Yosemite and the rocks from which they grow, become nobler than man, the masterpleo of God.

Inn MacLaren once said: "Let us re inforce this world with the world which is to come."

Lift off the roof from your low, par row cottage, let the higher world in. The soul needs air from its native skies.

Think of the millions who have sin. deaf children was entirely practicable as poverty, want, disease, loss, bereave-a part of the system of public education, ment and unnamed secret trials for their portion in the present life. Though a multitude of philanthropies are organized to relieve such suffering, God's mightlest philanthropy, the hope of eternal life, is greater than all bu manitarian agencies and alone makes life worth living. Robert Ingersoll said he did not beliere in fiving here on skim milk that he might have cream in heaven, but in our own lives. Paul explained: "I have suffered the loss of all things that I might win Christ and the crown." Jesus himself endured the cross for the joy that was set tefore him, and now awaits our coming to his many mansioned home,

This world cannot satisfy the longings of the soul any more than a cage ean satisfy a bird with wings. Life is truly called a voyage, a journey, a dressing-room, a vestibule, and there fore must have a destination, a home a unince in the capital city of all worlds.

The Redeemer intensified its light and broadened its flame so that to lose hope now is to ain against Divine Providence.

There has never been a mandate to despair. No matter what the environment, how dark the outlook, over and above all is the inspiration of hope. What man's voice prevails against the utterance of faith? When w man says theer is no hope, where is his guarantes?

The physician says: "The man will die with the dawn." The man lives yet. A man is in the ciutches of adveralty; he has lost his all. Lo! on the fragments of his fortune he builds a olossal indépende

The criminal staggers from depth to depth; he is fighting with the swine for their husks. Lot be is on the road to his home, in his father's arms, the ring is on his finger and the princely mantie on his shoulders.

History has not chronicled every hopeful deed. Ships a-many, despaired , have come to port; from many "last ditches" have been unfurled flags of rictory. The "last chance" is a mean ingless word. What man has the right to predict or determine it? No chance is the last one while a man lives. Innumerable and unseen doors are waiting the "open sesame" of Providence to come nfar and reveal vistas undreamed, restoration, relief, redemption. Last chances have often blossom ed into multitudinous opportunities.

The hope Paul speaks of is not supine, but active. It puts heart in a man as nothing else does. It is the mother of resurrection. God, the author and finisher of hope, be praised! For from Him comes the confidence which says; "There is a way out; if I cannot find it I will make it."

This hope, heaven descended, appro ed by reason and sanctioned by experience, cannot be baffled. To hope against hope is the hosis of character The traest test of a man is to hope against hope and to pluck success out of the very heart of failure.

TELEGRAPH KEYS IN MANY CITIES ARE QUIET.

Suspension of Wire Communication Affects All Lines of Business-Daily Newspapers and Marke Centers Arc Hardest Hit.

With Chicago as the center, the strike of the commercial telegraphers had spread to nearly every section of the country Sunday. The strike fever eemed to run rampant, city following city in suffering isolation until the telegraph offices of thirty-five cities had been deserted by the keymen. Chicago vas virtually isolated. Although a few leased wires were working when the operators employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company in Chicago walked out on strike at midnight Thursday the industry of the entire country was affected. The men quit work after voting a sympathetic strike to aid the Los Angeles operators, who struck twenty-four hours earlier. Their immediate reason was that the company officials insisted on their working on Los Augeles wires with strike-breaking operators at the western end.

Operators have been called in from the smaller towns and cities and there are many recruits also from the ranks or "graduates" men and women who have left the vocation and are in other lines of business.

Strike Curtoffs All Messages, Even

Over the Leased Wires.
Owing to the almost complete interruption of telegraphic communication be-tween various parts of the country the news dispatches in the city dailies, both news dispatches in the city dailies, both those sent out by the Associated Press and those received over special leased wires, were greatly curtailed. When the command, "Strike," was flashed to Chicago at midnight Thursday every union operator in the Western Union office stopped right in the middle of his dispatch, signafied "30," closed his key and left his lesk. Postal operators followed Saturday, and Chicago was practically isolated from the rest of the country so far as telegraphic communication was concerned.

Many portions of the country were entirely cut off from the news centers an even the messages received from the larger cities were in many cases meager showing the strain put upon the available wires. Operators on the leased wires complained of frequent interruptions and the service showed the results of general demoralization. As a result, there was a sensible diminution in the bulk of outside news which reached the news centers.

While the morning papers in all of the large cities suffered from this cause, the real neuteness of the situation was best realized in cities of 25,000 and under. Most of the newspapers in these towns do not lease their own wires, but rely on the Western Union and the Postal Tele-graph companies for service.

Messages to the union chiefs indicated that the men were straining at the leash and eager for a trivial excuse to plunge into the combat. More trouble was added to the many complica tions besetting operators at work by the tacit connivance of railroad tele graphers at the strike of the commercial men, At points where there are switchboards controlling the commercial wires the railroad men pull out the plugs, interfering with the working of the wire. Eagerness to join in the tumult, with or without excuse, seems the paramount desire of each grapher. Driven from the lowlands by forest ires, a small army of bears invaded Standish last week, forcing a suspension of business for several hoursand terrorizing the population. The bruins were themselves frightened, and this made the situation more tense. The visit was made just as the stores opened for business, and laborers were on their way to the factories. The invasion was headed by a large mother bear, folled by two cuba. They chose the principal street for entry, and when they had driven all people under cover were bold enough to stop in front of a grocery store and breakfast from a basket of turnips. This vanguard was followed by the main army of four good-sized animals, but they refused to stop, racing through the business section in double-quick time Governor Warner has named a When the inhabitants had recovered waste lands commission provided for from their astonishment a big hunt was organized and in two hours three

Held in New York for Giving and Receiving lilegal Concessions in Oil Shipments-Shock Restores Deaf Man's Hearing.

Four big corporations were indicted by the federal grand jury for the western district of New York, which reported to Judge Hazell. The report was only a partial one, but it included ten indict-ments. Two of these were against the Standard Oil Company of New York, one of them containing 188 counts and the other forty counts; two were against the Vacuum Oil Company of Rochester and containing 188 and forty counts respic tively; two were against the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railway companies, jointly, and two more wer against these two companies separately. In each of these the counts were similar 188 and forty. The indictments against the oil companies charge receiving and accepting illegal concessions in the ship ment of oil, and those against the railway companies charge illegally giving and granting such concessions.

MOORISH TOWN OF CASABLANCA BOMBARDED.

French and Spanish Cruisers Open Fire Following Battle with Tribesmen-Holy War Declared to Be Begun-Two Nations Land Troops.

French and Spanish warships bombarded Casablanca as the result of Moorish tribesmen firing upon troops landed to protect the French Consulate. Many casualties are reported. The French Admiral ordered 150 sailors to go ashore from the cruiser Galilee to protect the French consulate. The Moorish troops and tribeanen looked upon the landing of the men as an invasion and opened fire upon them. Besides many casualties among the Moors, it is reported that five French officers six sailors fell in the opening of bostilities.

When the shells began breaking over the town, the Moors quickly tell back and the French sailors were able to take up the wounded and care for them. The Moors are aroused as they never were before, and, spurred on by their fanatic fears that invasion of their country by foreigners means the end of their rule, they are preparing themselves for a stubborn defense of what they deem their rights.

KILLED MOTHER; ISN'T BORRY. Preckle-Vacod Boy Does Not Regre

A freckle-faced lad of 11 years, the murderer of his widowed mother, has be gun a sentence of ten years in the State reform school at Lincoln, Neb. He is Calif McCoy, an alert little lad. Calif is not at all contrite over his deed. He says he killed his mother because she mean to him. Rock county is up on the edge of the sandhills, and on a quarter section lived the Widow McCoy and her three sons. It was a hard life the fam liy led. Work all day, little pleasure, no schooling-this was the program the lad was familiar with from infancy.

The widow was a hard taskm she did not spure the rod. On June 8 she gave Calif a sound whipping for fail-ure to perform a task to her liking. Calif told his mother he would "fix" her. She whaled him a little harder for his threat. The next day she told the three boys t come with her to the field to plant beans. Calif slipped into the kitchen and got the family revolver. Hiding it under his coat, he went to the field. While his mother was crouched down at her task he walked up to within five or six feet of her and shot her through the head. She died in few moments.

Calif made no pretense of lying about what he had done. He said she had whip-ped him a number of times without cause, that she was mean to him and to his brothers and that he had but carried out his open threat to her when last she whip He did not weep then, and b hasn't wept since over her death.

STRIFE RENDS CITY.

Time alone will reveal the full truth on that ground; for should a bad year of the extraordinary latrigue and war fare, class feud and personal vendetta ease would overbalance the spray inthat involve the graft investigation in San Francisco and that have filled this That such injury is a reality, howcity's cup of bitterness and strife-a ever, is very plainly shown in a bullemore disastrous visitation, indeed, than that of earthquake and fire. tin of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station (Geneva). In San Francisco today the fight is against labor, although that is still being waged flercely and without quarter, but the opposing forces of two ceptains industry, two of the heaviest capltelists in California, are drawn in a struggle to the death. For some months the lines of battle have been clearly drawn, and while, outside of San Francisco, public attention has been con centrated upon the dethronement of Eugene Schmitz, thrice mayor of Sau of his Francisco, and the surrender partner and manipulator. Abe Reuf. here the feud between Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, and Rudolph Spreckels, the largest property bolder in San Francisco, has been most closely watched.

Patrick Calhoun, who is a grandson of John C. Calhoun, and is a man of great ability, impressive force, and who in San Francisco. Five years ago, the United Railroads, in which Mr. Calboun is the heaviest stockholder, absorbed most of the street railroads in San Francisco, and set about vast improvements of the system. Shortly fore the disaster of April, 1906, the United Railroads commenced the elecitricisation of its system. After a long and embittered controversy, in which Calhoun and Spreckels first joined issue, Mr. Calhoun decided on adopting the overhead trolley system. Spreckels and his collengues, of whom the chief was ex-Mayor James D. Phelan, had insisted that the United Railroads adopt the underground conduit system. For a year prior to the fire there had been much discussion in regard to the comparative merits of the cable, the overhead trolley, and the conduit sys-

The Merchants' Association employed William Barclay Parsons, of New York, whose conclusion was positive that the best way of meeting the transportation problems of San Francisco was to convert the cable roads into the overhead trolley. His report was vig-oronaly assailed by the Spreckels group theorists, who, disappointed in their obstructive tactics, organized the Municipal Street Railway Company, with $14,000,000 of capital stock. Incorporation papers were filed the day before the great disaster-and the war was

Despite the dire need of the suffering people, the service was stopped for several days, and the general manager of the United Railroads was threatened with arrest. The United Railroads agreed to carry the peo ple free of charge. This permission was finally granted, but again Mr. Spreckels intervened, claiming that the free transportation caused such over crowding of the cars that business mer willing enough to pay their fares, could

Thus the fight progressed, until final ly there came the graft investigation in the course of which Spreckels man If need to have Calhoun indicted on the charge of bribing officials with $200,000 Calhonn and his colleagues proclaim their innocence of the charge of bribery and express their willingness to meet their enemies. At present their cases are being delayed by other trials. The people of San Francisco are new fairly divided into two camps—comprising the adherents of Spreckels and the forces of Calboun. Pasperism and Crime Cently. Dr. Charles M. Bushnell, who is con ducting a model public playground at Washington, D. C., says that the United States spends $6,000,000,000 annually en States spence 50,000,000,000 annually on the criminal pauper and ricious classes. This figure is based upon an extensive attudy of what he calls the social illness of this country. He finds that the average factory hand earns $440 a year, whereas the average criminal costs about $1,200 a year. Itsease as a result of victous habits is believed to be increasing ing; suicides are increasing six times as fast as the population, and murder three times as fast, while mannity is also making gains. In industrial enterprises we are, it appears, each year maining and killing from two to nine times as many persons as are killed in similar pur many persons as are guised in similar pur-nuits in Europe. He declares that we have 4,000,000 pampers and 10,000,000 persons on the ragged sign of pamperism. To-day he finds that over one-third of our population live in large cities, as com-pared with 8 per court in 1790.

SAD NEWS FOR TRAMPS From New On He Will Find It More Difficult to Move About.

For years and years the merdicity experts of all sorts, ranging from the practical students of the subject, like "Josish" Fight" and Jack London, up to the more scientific investigators who looked at it scientific investigators who looked at it broadly in its melological relations, have been calling attention to the fact that the solution of the trains problem by in the abolition of free railway travel for the wandering brotherhood. The tramp, they said, if reduced to immobility, or oven to the mobility given by his own legs, would be almost impossible.

If confined to one town or limited to the few the tramp could reach unaided he would soon become known and be forced to work or go to jail. The stories of temporary lack of money and of em-ployment waiting a few miles beyond would not be accepted at kitchen doors from a sturdy beggar in his own vicinage, and it is only by making those stories believed that the tramp can live at all. As a rule, he applies only once at the same door, and of necessity, at least, he puts enough space between his visits to endure forgetfulness of his identity. This be can do only because he is allowed to ride free on freight trains, practically when and where he chooses. The railway companies have always recognized the tramp as a nulsance and a danger, and innumerable half-hearted efforts have been made to bar him from the cars and bumpers and trucks, but for the most part the train crews leave the unwelcome passengers alone, partly be-cause to put them off means trouble and with occasional fights with men delay, with occasional ignus with men who do not hesitate at murder, and partly because even the tramps will pay a little something to be ignored, and these fares go no further than the recipient's pocket. At last, however, the charity workers and the railway officials seem to be settlers together for the remedities. to be getting together for the remedying

Prof. Garner admits that wild animals are habitually more tacitura than domesticated ones, as are also the wild tribes of human beings. This he were found concentrating their efforts attributes to lack of social intimacies and nemadic habits. But he points out that merely going hunting and camping in the forest with fire and noise gives no oppor-tunity for the methodic study of its dealzens. It is necessary to live among them in a state of nature for an indefinite Contradicting Hornaday, Garner denies safety in wild animal life. The carnivorous, the only natural enemies to which other animals have any cause of fear of betrayal by the sound of their voices, depend almost wholly upon the sense of smell in pursuing their game, every species having its peculiar odor. Also the carrieores generally bunt at night, seizcarnivores generally hunt at night, seiz-ing the prey while asleep. The animals which have the fewest reasons to fear betrayal by their voices are by nature the most silent ones. Garner tells of his personal experience during the three years' residence in the jungle, how the impanzee frequently breaks the silence of the forest by answering the cries of various other animals. The gorilla is less loquacious, but there are times when he ignores all danger of betrayal Ad gives vent "to a deluge of speech." Other monkey species are persistent talkers and can be heard at most any hour. The trumbe heard at most any hour. The trumpeting of the elephant is common at hight and the bellowing of the hippopotamus by day and night. The antelopes cry at day and night. The antelopes cry at night when the leopard is on the hunt for them, the latter also grunting.

Banker Assails Trust Makers. Henry Clews, the millionaire banker of New York, in an address on great wealth and social unrest at Chautauqua, N. And further, we find the operating system of the Pere Marquette and the rules and regula tions governing the same defective in that they do not provide that all trains remning under a special schedule and not on the regular time card should be obliged to stop for orders at all stations which have been indicated by orders to other trains as meeting points. We find fur-ther, that the absence of such a rule was as equally a direct and proximate cause and fully responsible for the collision as the failure of said crew of train 71 prop-erly to read order No. 3 or the imperfect and improper manner in whi was prepared and delivered."

BAT DOWN ON THE DOG.

Tired Man on Street Car Dispossessed Woman's Pet.

There was just two seats left on a uclid avenue car yesterday afternoon when a little woman wearing a new pring suit and a hat with cerise dew lads on it climbed on, accompanied y a mild-mannered little buildog. She took one of the seats and assisted the bulldog to the other one.

The pair had just got comfortably settled when a determined-looking sent and then took hold of a strap. But he looked about dissatisfied, still wanting a seat. Then he happened to see the buildog. There was a little room on either side of the dog, but not enough for a man to sit. He cov-eted the seat occupied by the dog. Yes, he would do it, he resolved; he would give the dog a chance to offer him his seat. He walked up to the dog and waited a moment, but while both the dog and the woman looked the man turned about and started to sit down. The dog was the first to realize the danger, but it didn't move in time to prevent the man from sitting down on its hind legs.

The woman gathered the dog unto herself, while the man pulled a newspaper from his pocket and leaned back to read even as if nothing had happened -Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MASSAGE FOR A RHINOCEROS.

Peculiar Beauty Treatment Given Animal in Captivity.

Speke, a young rhinoceros of the Bronx park zoo, was put into the hands of six massage artists yesterday for such treatment as Dr. Blair the zoo veterinarian, had prescribed to keep his skin healthy, says the New York World. Dutchman and Dragon.

A noted Michigan automobile de-alguer, who prides himself on the popularity of his cars, told an amusing dining with him at the Hotel Belmont New York, the other day. Said he: "I was riding on a trolley car in Lancaster, Pa., one afternoon last week, when a large six cylinder French automobile with a limousine body, whized past. The car in all probability cost over $8,000. An old Pennsylvania Dutchman was seated beside me, and I saked him in an off-hand way if he knew what make of

"During the times of Harrison's administration," said Senator Dubois of idaho in his committee room, "there was a tail, lean clerk in the postoffice department whose ingenuity I much admired. I wish I could remember of him. He was stenographer to an important official who, in the dicta-tion of letters, was the worst ever.

"This official's weakness was gas-ing out of the window upon F street as he answered his correspondence. With one eye to the windward he would talk along in loud sentences till a high stepping horse or a fisshy bit of millinery passed. Then his voice would graduate into nothingness, leaving his stenographer up a stump. Coming to life again, with the passing of the object he had been admiring, he would begin with:

"Read that last sentence, please."

PLEASURE OF EASTERN WOMEN.

Their Main Occupation the Diversions of the Tollet.

An eastern lady of high degree spends an amount of time over her tollet that would quite astonish the most fashionable society lady. First she has her hair dressed by her maid, who, after ancinting the long, silky black locks with a little oil, made from aloe wood or cocounit, arranges it simply in a long, smooth plait, low on the name of the neck, and decorat ed either with gold or jewelled orns

Next the bath is prepared as hot a it can be borne, and in this the lady may stay as long as two or three hours. Scaps are not used, but, in-stead, there are multifarious unguents, secret preparations of the bathing women, which render the skin soft as volvet and delicately perfumed. Oftentimes-the face is washed over with milk, into which has been

The hair of the oriental woman is usually beautifully long, soft and glossy, and the way they arrange it is invariably becoming to their soft type of beauty. Perfumes are much indulged in. These are introduced in the bath and permeate the garments. but are rarely used on a handker chief.

For a hundred years or more I have guarded well this door. If in times of peace and quiet Or in days of war and riot, Never failing in my duty. Whether fashion, wealth or beauty Ruled this house, or povorty Walked in squalor over me, I stood watch, and now alone. I remain a womout stone.

Many winters' silent snow, Many summers' heated glow Came and went and in their pride Generations grew and died. Baw them play, and love, and slave-flaw them go, that passed me o'er, Go where others went before; But forgotten and alone, I remain a wornout stone.

Now the house is bare of life,
No more sorrow, joy or strife
Echo from each gloomy wall.
For the house is doomed to full—
Doomed to fall, as all things must.
That are raised of earth and dust;
Fall, as age must o'er give way
Bo that youth must have its day—
Haye its day, for mine is done—
See, I am a broken stone!

The Part of True Wisdom. The freest government, if it could exist, would not be long acceptable if the tendency of the laws was to create a rapid accumulation of property in a few hands. In the nature of things, those who have not proparty and see their neighbors nossesse to need cannot be favorable to laws "What's the matter, Lafe?" saxed made for the protection of such property. When this class becomes numerous it grows elamorous. It looks on property as its prey and plunder, and is naturally ready at all times for violence and revolution. It would seem, then, to be the part of political erty, but to establish such distribution into its transmission and alienation as to interest the great majority of society in the support of the govern-ment.—Daniel Websies.
